POLICE CHIEF THE BIG BOSS IN ALL CANADA

Country Closed in by Guards Local Men Find on Recent Visit

PRICES ABOUT SAME AS HERE

Prices of staples in Canadian cities are approximately the same that they are here, in spite of the war's effects, according to Roy S. Sharpnack and W. G. Sharpnack, who have returned, together with County Commissioner John O. Watson from attending a convention at Buffalo and a brief visit to Canadian cities. Everywhere Canada shows evidence of its preparedness, and no stranger enters her borders without being subjected to the most rigid surveillance. Canada fears spies and is making every effort to prevent them from entering the country. Visits at Toronto. Hamilton and Welland were productive of the same sort of experiences.

Upon a stranger entering a city or town, if he intends to go further or if he intends to stay he must report to the chief of police. There his description is taken, even to the color of his eyes, and he is supplied with a certificate. This certificate is all important with him, as he must show it frequently.

Everywhere there are soldiers. Seemingly every tenth man is a soldier. Canada has no time now for sightseers. Its business is to help its mother country. England, lick the Teutonic allies and it is going about it in a very business-like way. Every park is protected and monuments are guarded even from casual sightseers. Barbed wire barricades are strung along the sides of street car lines leading into Canada.

One of the unpleasant experiences to the ordinary American entering Canada is not only the necessity of telling his exact business and all about his past and his future intentions, but also the embarrassment of being constantly shadowed. Canada will take a man's word but demands absolute proof. Public buildings, with the exception of the postoffice are closed.

Woolens sell at possibly a little higher price than they do in this country and other fabrics keep pace with them. But the cost of bread is the same as in the "States." Canadians are affected by the high cost of living the same that are the people of the United States.

Monongahela Jewelry Store Burglarized

Entering through a window and jimmying a door, burglars some time during Sunday night robbed the jewelry establishment of Eugene Seaman at Monongahela. More than $100 worth of valuables were taken from the cases. The booty included watches, ear drops and valuable pieces of gold. There is no clue to the burglars who opperated systematically and with the apparent ability of professionals.

Police of Monongahela and valley towns have been notified of the occurrence and an efort is being made to trace the thieves. Discovery of the thievery was made this morning when the store was opened.

ALL POSTOFFICES TO OBSERVE THANKSGIVING DAY AS COMPLETE HOLIDAY FOR ALL EMPLOYES

New Ruling Effective for First Time This Year and No Deliveries of Mail Will be Made—Sentiment for Better Holiday Observance.

For the first time, perhaps, since town and city mail deliveries were instituted, there will be no Thanksgiving deliveries of mail and the day will be observed the same that a Sunday would. This is a new wrinkle in postal service for which an order has just been isued.

Within the last few years there has been a growing tendency on the part of the postoffice department to better observe holidays. This movement resulted in Sundays being declared complete holidays for postoffice employes and the custom of handing out Sunday afternoon mail at the window being discontinued. Usually on Thanksgiving day and other holidays of the year one delivery of mail matter has been made and the postoffice general delivery window kept open a part of the day. This with the new ruling will all be changed in Charleroi and every other postoffice in the country.

What arrangements will be made on Christmas day for handling the large bulk of postoffice trade remains to be seen. There will probably be no deliveries made on Monday, Christmas day, though there will be Sunday, the day before Christmas.

High Schools To Play Here Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving day will be featured by a big football game that will be staged that afternoon beginning at 2:45 o'clock betwen the Donora and Charleroi high schools. Much rivalry exists because in some sense the game will have an effect on the mythical valley and county championship. Donora was defeated by Monessen by a small score and Monessen tied with Charleroi, 0-0. If Charleroi defeats Donora by a large score then the local supporters will beel justified in their claim to the championship, a thing much in doubt this year.

The usual lineup will be presented by Charleroi and Donora will send their best here. Coaches Grimm and Leahey are working nightl yto put their men in the best of trim for the struggle.

MAN FOUND DEAD ALONG RAILROAD

Neck of Gastonville Resident Broken in Accident Near Cincinnati Mine

FOREIGN WOMAN MEETS DEATH

His neck broken and his chest crushed, the body of John Bartoni of Gastonville was found along the railroad tracks near the Cincinnati mine Sunday morning. How he had met death is not known. The opinion is that he had been struck by a fast freight during the night, though how he happened to be near the mine when his home was far distant is a mystery. His body was brought to Monongahela.

A foreign woman by the name of Conasitus of Coal Center was killed Friday night at Wood Run. She is said to have started home along the tracks from a visit at Wood Run and to have stepped from behind a string of cars when she was struck.

BOY NABBED FOR ROBBING POSTOFFICE

Newell Theft Discovered Soon After it Occurs on Sunday—Lad Confesses

MONEY FOUND AT HIS HOME

A juvenile burglar robbed the Newell postoffice Sunday and got away with $25.30, only to be traced and nabbed. Then the money was all recovered after an admisison had been made by the lad and his mother had been drawin into the affair as an accessory.

The boy's name is Tony Innoso, aged 12 years. He had worked some about the postoffice and knew many of the inner secrets of the office. Sunday he gained entrance through a cellar window and secured what cash was available. Shortly after Postmaster Charles E. Dusenberry discovered the robbery Suspicion hinged upon the lad and he was taken to the office of Justice of the Peace Charles Downer. At first he stoutly denied any knowledge of the burglary, but later confessed. Accompanied by the officers he went to his home. Nine dollars was secured, but both the boy and his mother maintained this was all that was left of the amount. Finally the rest of the money was located, part under a bushel basket and part in two trunks.

The boy was arrested for burglary and his mother for receiving stolen money and for being an accessory after the fact. Postoffice Inspector H. H. Williams this morning represented the postoffice department at a hearing before Justice Downer, when both mother and son were held.

COUNTRY ROADS

With its arguments for improved country roads on an economical basis the following article from a weekly periodical, which was drawn to the attention of the Mail by a Fallowfield township reader, presents the thought that a revolution is truly in progress:

The revolution in country roads has certainly begun in earnest. During the past five years very great progress has been made all over the country. The legislation by the national and state governments is beginning to bear rich fruit.

One cannot help harboring the thought that if European governments can afford to pour out billions of money in a destructive war, certainly the United States can afford to pour out a billion or two for a great internal improvement that will pay a good interest on the money invested. Also this improvement is making farm life more liable and is bringing closer together the farms and the towns. Also, it is making this nation more able to defend itself, for good roads are a prime factor in military tactics.

The cement road bed is playing a much greater factor in the construction of these roads than was anticipated. In one Illinois county, where a friend of the writer has a contract for building fourteen miles of this cement road, a total mileage of this cement roadway under construction at this time is about 180 miles. This road is costing about $7,000 per mile. The cement is seven inches thick in the center and slightly thinner at the edges. It is ten feet wide with a three-foot gravel shoulder on each side, and with six feet of earth road on each side of that, making a twenty-eight-foot wide road. Of course, the autos will keep to the cement. This cement has no finishing coat, as that would be slippery and would cause machines to skid in wet weather.

Much of this same kind of roadway is being constructed in far separated parts of the country and seems to be more favored than any other variety of hard road. Comparing the cost with city hard paving we see that it is exceedingly low. At $7,000 per mile the cost per foot of length is $1.40 (about.) The writer is paying on some city paving at the rate of about $3.00 per running foot and does not think he is paying too much. It looks as if the country road men have worked the hard-road problem to a fairly low cost.

In connection with these country hard roads one has to notice that the farms along the way have improved in appearance. On one strip of such cement road built two years ago the farmers living along the way began to build parkways for their lots before the roads were finished. They had never dreamed of doing anything of the kind before. They realized that in a way the city was being brought to them and they proposed to put on city appearances. This is really a great thing, for it shows a spirit of improvement abroad, and when such a spirit begins to work no man can tell where it will stop working, if it ever stops.

REPREHENSIBLE PRACTICE

Collecting money from an ignorant foreigner for getting him a job and for continuing him in employment is one of the most reprehensible practices in which a man could engage. Yet there are evidences of it in many lines of employment.

From California information was lodged against a machine boss, charging him with graft of the sort. Charges were proven and the man fined. If the thing is as general as it is charged, it is to be hoped that this prosecution only marks the beginning.

The ignorant foreigner is considered fair prey by too many persons passing as good citizens. The coal miner is not alone to blame though there are many records against him. If there is any graft that comes easy it is this, and danger of detection seems to be slight. However justice is not blind and evidence is coming to light that, with proper publicity, will go far toward correcting the wrongs which exist.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The story is told that a Donora young man and the girl of his choice a few months ago went to a Belle Vernon minister to be wed. The ceremony was duly performed, it being one of the unostentatious events performed by the clergyman at his own home, with his good wife as witness.

The ceremony over, the young man turned to the minister to ask his charge.

"I never make any special charge," the minister answered and was about to continue, informing the young man he could pay what he pleased, when the youth broke in nervously:

"Well, I'm much obliged, I'm sure. Maybe I can do a good turn for you some time."

"Gabe," said the lawyer to the amazed negro witness, who had been listening to a heated discussion as to the admissibility of certain testimony, "you have followed carefully this intricate discussion touching on the various aspects of medical jurisprudence involved in the issues we have before us for adjustification: and in view of that I now desire to know the theory advanced by my learned brother."

The witness cast a triumphant side glance at his own attorney. Then he pufffed out his lips and chest. "Most doubtless," he answered.—Everybodys Magazine.

HOW TO GAIN FLESH

Remarkable Statement of a Woman who was Nothing But Skin and Bones.

Laugh and grow fat is a homely saying, but Mrs. Elizabeth L. Morris of Hammond, La., tells of a more reliable method. She says:—

"I cannot say enough in praise of Vinol, for it saved my life. I was weak, nervous, run-down, could not sleep, was unfit for work and was nothing but skin and bones. Three doctors had all failed to help me. One day I saw Vinol advertised, took courage and bought a bottle, and it soon made me feel better. I continued its use and said a change! I have regained my strength, flesh and health, am perfectly well, and the doctor was surprised to see such a change in me in such a short time." Elizabeth Morris, Hammond, La.

The reason Vinol proved such a wonderful strength creator in Mrs. Morris' case was because of the beef and cod liver peptones, iron and glycerophosphates, combined in a pure native tonic wine, which makes Vinol a most wonderful tonic.

WEIGHING A PIG.

It Was a Perplexing Problem, but the Farm Lad Solved It.

A Massachusetts boy has solved a problem which ought to be of interest to all farm youngsters. If you had a pig and wanted to weigh him, but owned a pair of scales recording only twelve pounds, what would you do about it?

This eastern farmer boy had entered a pig in a contest conducted by the agricultural department and had to keep monthly records of gains in weight, but he suffered the handicap described above. His solution was a credit to his ingenuity.

The boy notched a high board fence, put a long pole evenly across it, resting in the notch, and fastened a crate to one end of the pole and a box to the other. He put sand in the box until the pole was exactly balanced. Then he enticed the pig into the crate by means of corn, fastened him and put small stones into the box until the pole again balanced. These stones he weighed on his little scales, load after load, and their total gave him the weight of the pig.

That boy when he grows up may invent the much talked of substitute for gasoline. — Des Moines Register and Leader.

A Profitable Reduction.

The capitalist knew that the new company was spending too much money; also he knew that in some way they had got to put a stop to it. So anxious was he to reduce expenses that he offered his private secretary $25 a month extra if he could find a way to cut down current expenses.

The young man overhauled his accounts, but he failed to find a single expense that could be judiciously cut down. Just as he was about to give up the promised increase in salary it occurred to him that he was already getting $80 a month. Brimming over with enthusiasm, he sought the capitalist.

"I have found a way," he said. "You can save $10 a month on me. I have taken that amount off my salary."

It took the capitalist just about a tenth of a second to see that the young man was still $15 a month ahead, but the bargain stood.—New York Times.

Wrong Interpretation.

A city official tells of a conversation he and a Spanish maiden had when he was a sergeant with troops stationed on the island of Porto Rico.

"The senorita," said the official, "had become infatuated with a certain soldier named Harry, and she had learned his name. One morning she approached me and asked:

"'Where Harry?'

"He was asleep, and I laid my head on my hand and closed my eyes to tell the girl. She misunderstood the signs and, with a cry, pointed to heaven. I shook my head and pointed down. The senorita raised her hands in silent supplication. Later Harry was seen on guard, and the girl looked at me reproachfully."—Indianapolis News.

His Wail.

"She's like all the other women."

"In what way?"

"She imagines all a man has to do to get his salary raised is to ask for it."

"Well?"

"And I can't convince her that the boss won't give me more money unless I earn it. She insists on blaming me because we're poor."—Detroit Free Press.

BAGPIPES ARE ANCIENT.

Scotland Didn't Adopt Them Till the Fifteenth Century.

Neither Scotland nor Ireland can claim to have invented the bagpipes. Greeks, Romans, Assyrians and Chinese all played bagpipes of sorts long before the time of Christ, and the instrument actually figures on one of the coins of Nero, who may have played it. The Breton biguon, the Calabrian zampogna, the German sackpfeife and the French cornemeuse are all bagpipes under different names.

It was actually a Scotsman and no less a man than the lord advocate of the time who publicly declared fifty years ago that "the bagpipe is an English instrument, essentially English. The English were the original bagpipers." He pointed out that, while Shakespeare often speaks of bagpipes, he never does so in "Macbeth" and that it is in Lincolnshire and Yorkshire that he localizes the pipes. To Chaucer and Spenser also they are English. James IV. and other Scottish kings paid for "inglis pyparis" at their court, while Edward I., Edward III., Henry VI. and Henry VIII. seem to have had native pipers.

The highlanders never used the pipes in war before the fifteenth century. The harp was Scotland's instrument.—London Chronicle.

A Traffic Tragedy.

The panicky pedestrian hesitated at the intersection of two busy streets. A motorcar was rushing upon him from one direction, from another point a motorcycle was approaching rapidly, an autotruck was coming from behind, and a taxicab was speedily bearing down upon him.

He gave a hopeless glance upward. Directly above him a runaway aeroplane was in rapid descent.

There remained for him but one resource. He was standing upon a manhole cover. Quickly seizing it, he lifted the lid, jumped into the hole—and was run over by a subway train!—New York Times.

The Moslem's Exalted Month.

Ramadan is the month exalted by Moslems above all others. In that month the Koran, according to Moslem tradition, was brought down by Gabriel from heaven and delivered to man in small sections. In that month Mohammed was accustomed to retire from Mecca to the cave of Hira for prayer and meditation. In that month Abraham, Moses and other prophets received their divine revelations. In that month the "doors of heaven are always open, the passages to hell are shut, and the devils are chained." So run the traditions.—Christian Herald.

Fifty-Fifty.

"My son," said the father impressively, "you are leading an absolutely useless life. For the last ten years you have done nothing but squander time and money."

"That's all right, dad," replied the unrepentant youth. "It isn't as if I was asking you to bear the whole burden. You just furnish the money, and I'll try to find the time."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Something In This.

Instead of the greeting, "How are you?" which makes it easy for your friends to discourse on their alleged ills, why not say "You're looking well?" which puts the burden of proof on the man who thinks he is ill.

There's an interesting bit of psychology in this.—Exchange.

J. J. CHESTER, CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES

Former Monongahela Valley Man Succumbs to Paralysis at His Home in Washington—S. T. Chester of Charleroi One of Surviving Sons.

J. J. Chester, aged 70 years, a veteran of the Civil war and who until his removal to Washington last fall was a prominent citizen of the Monongahela valley, died at his home, 396 Locust avenue, Washington Sunday night at 8:35 o'clock. His death was sudden, Mr. Chester having been stricken by paralysis about 9 o'clock Saturday night.

When the struggle between the North and South started, Mr. Chester enlisted at New Brighton as a member of the 49th Pennsylvania Volunteers. He saw service in the Army of the Potomac and later in the Army of the Cumberland. He was wounded while fighting in the Chattanooga region and did not recover for some months. Upon his recovery he was honorably discharged from service in 1865. He was a member of the Harry Billingsley Post, G. A. R., of California.

A son of S. A. Chester, Mr. Chester was born on a farm which is now a part of Long Branch borough. He married Miss E. A. Gatts, who survives. Until retiring and coming to Washington, Mr. Chester had been an active farmer.

Besides Mrs. Chester, three sons and one daughter survive: Blaine Chester of Canonsburg, Raymond Chester of Speers, Christy Chester of Belle Vernon and Mrs. Ava Beal of near Portland, Oregon. S. T. Chester of Charleroi and John Chester of Joplin, Mo., are brothers. He leaves a half brother, Elias Worrell, in Missouri.

CRIMINAL COURT FINALLY ADJOUANEN FOR THE TERM

Criminal court for the November term was adjourned finally Saturday. There were two full weeks of trial of cases, preceded by one week of grand jury work. Judge R. W. Irwin has been ill and court was held only before Judge J. A. McIlvaine. In order to clean up the list court has been held on Saturday, which is unusual. Today the November term of common pleas court will be convened, and there are four weeks of cases listed. Common pleas court will not be adjourned until the 23d of December.

Frank Kolan, of Avella, was found guilty Saturday of attempting to dynamite a house at Avella. While he denied the allegations, there were witnesses who testified to seeing Kolan running away from the scene of the explosion, just before it occurred. He was sentenced to pay the costs, one of $1 and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for three months.

College President Preaches.

President B. H. Kroeze of Jamestown College, Jamestown, North Dakota, preached at the First Presbyterian church morning and evening Sunday. He is a personal friend of the pastor, Rev. A. J. Whipkey, whom he visited over Sunday. Large congregations attended the services, and as a token of appreciation the church contributed between $50 and $60 to the uses of his college.

MOTORCYCLISTS TO MAKE RUN THANKSGIVING DAY TO UNIONTOWN SPEEDWAY

Arrangements are being made by motorcyclists of the Monongahela valley for a Thanksgiving Day run to Uniontown to attend the automobile races at the Uniontown speedway. The start will be made from Albright's motor shop, Charleroi, at about 9:30. Fully 50 cyclists are expected to make the trip.

Fateful Warship Names.

The ill luck attendant on British warships bearing the names of reptiles is almost beyond coincidence. The first of England's fast turbine destroyers was the Viper. She was only 312 tons, but had engines of 10,000 horsepower and could do thirty-five knots. During naval maneuvers she ran into fog, struck the rocks off the Channel islands and broke into three pieces.

Three other Vipers have been lost at different times.

The Cobra, a similar vessel to the Viper, broke her back in the North sea. Some say she hit a whale, some that it was merely force of wave and weather.

In 1890 the Serpent, a gunboat, went on the rocks off the north coast of Spain, with terrible loss of life. The death roll was 173.

Three other Serpents have been lost at different times, three Lizards, two Snakes, one Basilisk and one Crocodile. Does any one wonder, then, that England carefully avoids ships with "snaky" names?—London Answers.

KENNETH SHIPLEY DIES FROM ATTACK OF FEVER

The boy would have been 12 years old next March 25. In the family besides the parents are three small children.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon with services conducted at 2 o'clock at the home by Rev. C. A. Hartung, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Interment will be in the Monongahela cemetery.
